Stickney and Richards Turn Ankles in Practice Tuesday.—Both Started Game Against Rockford.

Lacking confidence, the Janesville high school quint left at one o'clock for Rockford this afternoon, where they were scheduled to meet the Rockford City high school five at three o'clock. The entire squad of seven men with Coach Curtis made the trip. In practice yesterday, Capt. Stickney and Richards, the two forwards, turned an ankle, and the forward team to limp considerably. Curtis intended to start them against Rockford, but they were not ready to play. The team planned upon leaving to play a strictly defensive game, and the score low. As the contest drew near, the Janesville players, feeling that by playing defensively, they were preparing themselves for the other game, they came. Some of the optimistic members of the team figured that Janesville could win, which result is hoped for. The team will return on the nine o'clock car tonight.

NEW LEAGUE IS FORMED BY EIGHT STATE TEAMS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Rockford, Ill., Jan. 27.—A new baseball organization named the Bi-State League was formed here with eight teams—Rockford, Beloit, Janesville, Racine, Watertown, St. Joseph, and Oshkosh. The schedule will provide for 126 games. B. M. Parsons of Madison was elected president and John Cronin of Rockford, vice president. A salary limit of $1,100, exclusive of the manager, was set, and guarantees will be $25 per game, rain or shine, and $50 to play on Sundays, with holidays pooled. Racine alone was not represented, but sent word that it would enter.

"PING" BODIE SOLD BY WHITE SOX TO "FRISCO"

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Chicago, Jan. 27.—"Ping" Bodie, outfielder for the Chicago White Sox, has been given his release, being sold outright to the San Francisco club in the Western League. This is the team Bodie was picked from by the Sox, having the reputation of being a "fence buster." "Happy" Pelech, obtained from the Milwaukee Brewers, is expected to fill his place.

OAKES IN FIGHT TO PUT CRIMP IN O. B.

Rebel Oakes, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is engaged with the other team in the outlaw organization in their fight to have organized baseball declared a trust. Oakes has signed an affidavit, which will be read when the case comes to court.

BEECHER DEFEATED BY FREDDIE WELSH

Tough Brooklyn Lightweight Proves No Match for Artful Champion in Ten Rounds of Milling.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] New York, Jan. 27.—New York press reports all give Freddie Welsh, champion lightweight of the world, a clean victory over Willie Beecher, in ten rounds of milling here last night. During the fight Beecher demonstrated his power to absorb punishment for badly during the bout with the exception of the fourth round, when Beecher managed to connect a hard right that caused the champion to duck to cover for the last minute. Beecher tried to tear into Welsh intent on grabbing of a dream of wealth and fame with a k. o. punch, but Welsh stalled him off with jolts and jabs and before the sixth round was over Beecher was on the run from the force of the weak but steady wallop on the jaw and body. Chas. White was to have Welsh, sickness preventing.

NO RECORDS IN PRESENT TOURNEY AT MILLER'S BEATEN LAST EVENING

Although some of the bowling last evening at the Miller tournament was very good, there were no records broken. Cook and Richards hit only 981 in the doubles, while Rattery and Abraham scored 900. In the singles, Ryan rolled 559, a good score, and Robbins, after a great start, fell down with 118 in his last game, that might have set the single record for the tourney. Pengar rolled 527. Tonight Lee and Neave, two roundhouse stars, will roll in the doubles, as will Howard and Marwick. Score last evening: Cook 158 175 142—491 Richards 115 157 129 Rattery 117 149 189—406 Abraham 118 159 182—459 Ryan 192 181 118—491 Robbins 137 160 180—477 Pengar 137 160 180—477

MORRIS MILLER

If the Boston American league club, as reported, goes after Marty O'Boyle and manages to land him, it will be the spilt milk hurler's second engagement with that team. The Red Sox did not give him a real trial his first time up, however. That was in 1910. They drafted him from Brockton, in the New England league, after the 1909 season, but on May 15, 1910, they released him to St. Paul. The latter club farmed him to Sioux City, recalling him at the close of the Western league season, whereupon O'Boyle proceeded to show for the Saints the form that resulted in his being purchased by the Pittsburgh club for the highest price ever paid for a player up to that time.

Speedy Rush, the Cleveland man who will coach the Princeton Tiger footballers next fall, will have plenty of able assistance in building up a defense to stop Aleck Wilson, Yale's captain, next November. The Wilson family is as strong at Princeton as it is at Yale. Two brothers are to be arrayed against another brother. "Wilsey" Wilson, last year a wing man on the Princeton freshman team, will likely be on the varsity, even this year. Tom Wilson, a few years ago a star lineman with Princeton, probably will be engaged as one of Rush's five assistant coaches. In that capacity he would have to train the brother "Wilsey" to meet the maneuvers of the Yale men, who this year will be captained by Aleck, their brother, from the quarterback position.

Manager McGraw of the Giants has left New York for Cuba, accompanied by Christy Mathewson and Jim Lohr. The Giants' manager will have a conference with Marsans, the Cuban outfielder who was enjoined from playing with the St. Louis Reds last season. McGraw will make Marsans a proposition, and if he shows an inclination to come back to organized baseball a deal will be made with the Cincinnati club for his services.

Association Pinmen Roll 878 Game, And Take Lead at Finish by 189 Pins.—Mott Rolls High Game.

The Y. M. C. A. first bowling quint defeated the Miller's team last evening at the association alleys for the second time this season in as many games. Valentine Mott, in his second game rolled 293 for the Y. team, a game of 378 is credited to the association bowlers in their second game of the match. Miller's bowlers apparently cannot get accustomed to the new alleys, as shown by their games last night. Score:—

The TRIUMPH of SCIENCE

THIS busy, progressive nation is today at the dawn of a new era of commercial and social development. The means by which the human voice, with its slightest inflections and indications of personality, can be carried across the continent instantly, have been provided. Talking by telephone from New York to San Francisco is now an accomplished fact.

The celebration of this latest and greatest triumph in the art of telephony has just taken place. Within a short time the public will have, ready for its use, the product of American brains, American initiative and American scientific and technical skill, a transcontinental telephone service, the equal of which is not even approached in all the other nations of the world.

It is a splendid scientific achievement of the very highest character. The power that sends the human voice over the telephone is scarcely greater than that of a breath, yet the means have been provided by which this tiny, almost imaginary impulse, made up of as many as 2,000 separate vibrations a second, can be picked up by a delicate instrument, conserved over a distance of 3,400 miles, and reproduced perfectly and instantly across the continent. The human voice has been made to travel as fast as light, faster than sound unaided by technical apparatus; indeed, it rivals THOUGHT even in the swiftness of its flight.

The imagination can but feebly grasp, much less attempt to measure, the far-reaching significance of such a tremendous accomplishment. One hundred million people will have for their daily use a system of communication that knows no East, no West, no North, no South. Dialects, provincialisms, sectional prejudices, must eventually yield to the closer union, the better understanding, the more intimate comradeship that the human voice establishes. The neighborliness of a whole nation is advanced by the brushing away of the physical restraints of centuries.

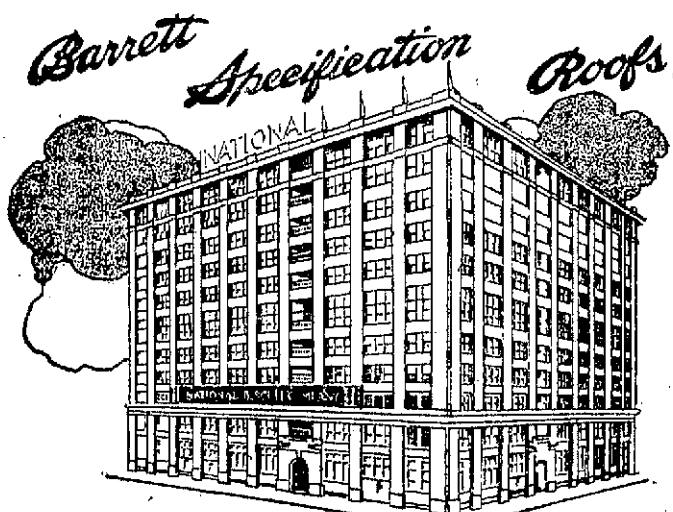

This contribution to the future happiness and prosperity of a more closely united people has not been brought about, however, by the overcoming of a few isolated, concrete difficulties. Its success has depended upon the exercise of the highest engineering and technical skill and the solution was found only in the cumulative effect of improvements great and small, in telephone, transmitter, line, cable, switchboard, and every other piece of apparatus or plant required in the transmission of speech.

In this work the experimental and research department of the Bell System of which this Company is a part, has been engaged ever since the telephone became a commercial possibility, less than 40 years ago. With no traditions to follow and no experience to guide, this department, which is now directed by a staff of over 550 engineers and scientists, including former professors, post graduate students, scientific investigators—the graduates of 140 universities—has created an entirely new art—the art of telephony, and has given to the people of this country a telephone service that has no equal.

It has required vast expenditures of money and immense concentration of effort, but these have been justified by results of immeasurable benefit to the public. The transcontinental telephone line, 3,400 miles long, joining the Atlantic and Pacific, is part of the Bell System of 21,000,000 miles of wire connecting 8,000,000 telephone stations, located everywhere throughout the United States. Composing this system are the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and Associated Companies and connecting companies, giving universal service to 100,000,000 people.

Truly, This is The Triumph of Science

The life of a Barrett Specification Roof, if properly laid, will probably be 20 years.

You see, it is constructed of five plies of tarred felt, with coal tar pitch as the waterproofing material, and covered with a top surface of gravel or slag.

It is fire-retardant and absolutely standard in every way. You cannot afford to take chances with your roof covering. Leaky roofs are a nuisance and an expense.

If you let us lay a Barrett Specification Roof on your building you will, as the years go on, be more and more pleased with your bargain. Write us for estimates.

THE SUNDAY MORNING NAP.
Johnny Jones was absent from Sunday school last Sunday, and his sister Sue got there just about fifteen minutes before it closed. Johnny wasn't sick nor did Sue have a splitting headache. In plain English they were just lazy and slept late. The whole family was in the same boat. Father and mother didn't even get to church, they were so late. This is not a description of any particular family, but of many families. It pictures a habit that has been growing rapidly in recent years, resulting in only an occasional attendance of parents at church, and lateness or spasmodic attendance of children at Sunday school and church. What a contrast this is with the customs of a generation or so ago, when everybody was in his place on Sunday morning from a sense of duty. Have we lost this sense of duty? Who is responsible for the general slackness in the average American household on Sunday mornings?

A quite plausible line of defense may be presented. There are so many more things going on than there used to be. There is a strain about business life, and social recreations make unusual demands. Substitute "school" for "business" in the preceding sentence and you have described the life of children also. There must be a time to relax and recuperate so Sunday morning is taken and the claim of the church goes by default. But why may not late rising be shifted from Sunday to Saturday in case of school children? I know of mothers who never call their children on Saturday morning, but let them "sleep the clock around" if they will. Sunday is meant to be a day of rest as well as of worship, but why may not the afternoon nap fill the bill, so that all in the family may rise in time Sunday morning to perform their duties to God and the church?

This editorial from Leslie's, sizes up the situation in many communities. Life is so strenuous these days that many of us take our theology by proxy, and if our children go to Sunday school we are perfectly willing that somebody else shall do the instructing.

The church has more competition today than it ever had before. The Sunday theatre and the picture show, at popular prices, appeal to the masses, and the day of rest in the country looks very inviting to many families who are able to enjoy it.

The church has come to be considered as a convenience, rather than a necessity, and its obligations are lightly regarded. It is an easy way to dispose of the situation by laying the blame on the people, but that is a long way from a remedy.

A writer in a late magazine, discussed "The Church in My Town," in a way that was very enlightening, and yet he simply stated facts with which everybody is familiar. His town was typical of thousands of others. The population of 1500 was attempting to support six churches which was at least four too many.

Results were the same as they are in every other community. A half-paid ministry, lack of interest and moral support, but little that was attractive to the young people, and an air of general debility.

Conditions are similar in the larger towns and inland cities. Twenty per cent of the population is a liberal estimate for the church-going people, and as a result the church fails in leadership and influence. The church of the future, which the next generation may enjoy, will represent the sacrifice of non-essential creeds and doctrines to concentrated effort for the broad service of humanity. It will work and worship in synagogues dedicated to service, and open every day of the week, equipped to lead the boys and girls along the lines of least resistance, and tide them over the uncertain age. This is the problem which confronts the church today, and it merits careful consideration.

SOUND ADVICE.

The policy of the administration, regarding the independence of the Philippine Islands, has been seriously questioned, and the faith of the senate committee was shaken. The other day, when ex-President Taft gave the members the benefit of his experience, which covered several years as governor of our far eastern possession. Mr. Taft maintained that sixty years of civilization and education would be necessary before these ignorant people would be capable of self-government. In one of President Wilson's books, written some years ago, this paragraph appears:

"Self-government is not a mere form of institutions, to be had when desired, if only proper pains be taken. It is a form of character. It follows upon long discipline which gives the people self-possession, self-mastery." This is the pedagogic way of stating the simple fact that no people are capable of self-government until they can govern themselves, a principle as old as government itself, and recognized by all thinking people. Just why President Wilson decided to ignore this principle, by demanding independence for the Philippines, is difficult to understand. While it is generally conceded that the United States has no use for these island possessions, the fact is recognized that they came to us through the fortunes of war, and we are in duty bound to act as a protectorate, until we can be honorably released.

These unfortunate people were under Spanish thralldom for four hundred years. Their redemption came as a revelation, and Christian civilization has already done much for them, but they are not able to stand alone, and without protection they would soon be captured by Japan—not a desirable outlook.

The railroads of the country and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, are now being investigated in Chicago by a board of arbitration, over wage scales and labor conditions. Exhaustive reports are being sent out to the press, by both sides to the controversy, which indicate that the grievances, while serious, should be met and overcome. The railroads are handicapped by stringent legislation, which cripples incomes, and do not feel warranted in adding to the expense account. The lack of business has resulted in reducing operating forces, and more or less hardship has followed. The Brotherhood of Railway Engineers is the most intelligent labor organization in existence, and has always been amenable to reason. It is to be hoped that the present trouble will be settled to mutual satisfaction.

The state income tax, like the primary law, was saddled on the state as a constitutional amendment by a minority vote of the taxpayers. Every amendment to the constitution, submitted during the past decade, has carried, until last year, when for the first time the people realized what they meant, and said "no" to every proposition. Indifference and ignorance of the income tax and primary law, and both measures would be defeated were they re-submitted today. The primary law demoralized and practically annihilated all political parties, as it was intended to do. The income tax has failed in its mission, because the most of it is absorbed in the personal property tax. The small balance remaining is largely absorbed in the expense of administering the law. The taxpayers would be relieved of a lot of annoyance by the repeal of the law and the state would be nothing out financially.

The democratic national administration is the busiest organization that ever came over the pike. After regulating everything from oleomargarine to the railroads, attention is now being given to the Rockefeller Foundation movement, one of the greatest philanthropies ever inaugurated in this or any other country. The foundation was endowed by John D. Rockefeller, and the income from $100,000,000 contributed, is ample for the work of serving humanity, which is the object in view. But the smelling committee of the administration became suspicious, and an investigation was ordered. It seemed impossible for them to conceive how a Rockefeller could engage in a work of philanthropy without a string attachment, and so they are looking for the string. The officers of the "foundation" have recently published a pamphlet answering all kinds of inquisitorial questions and giving full information regarding the work.

Some of the western states, which have been trying to keep pace with the "Wisconsin" idea, have called a halt to await developments. Results of the recent election have created the impression that the "idea" was so much in advance of the procession that the people were not satisfied. The smoothest running political machines sometimes come to grief, however skillfully managed, and the wreckage is soon forgotten. Wisconsin is a great state, and entitled to better government than she has enjoyed, during the past decade. The poor taxpayer has been lost in the shuffle long enough.

The villainous mill tax—for educational purposes—which has long cursed the state, should be abolished. It is no hardship to require the university to prepare a budget, the same as every other department. When this is done there will be no more farms bought at fancy prices, and the public crib will look less tempting.

If President Wilson succeeds in passing that ship purchase measure through congress he will have accomplished what is almost the unfeeling act. The majority of the citizens of the United States are against the bill in its present costume and the majority of congress is also opposed to it. If the reports can be believed, if passed it means another nail in the democratic coffin—1915.

Whittier or Hambricht? Which will be chosen speaker? The contest should be a friendly one and the loser content to work as hard in the ranks as though he had won the contest. Personally the Gazette would be very glad to see Mr. Whittier chosen.

This is the week of the Southern Wisconsin poultry exhibit. Janesville citizens should appreciate it by attending the exhibit at the auditorium and viewing the aristocrats of the barnyard at close range.

SALTS IS FINE FOR KIDNEYS, QUIT MEAT

Flush the Kidneys at Once When Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally. Says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

Uncle Abner. A fat man kin never make anybody believe he is a sage. There is only one class of people that gossip as much as the women and they are the men. I never yet see a foreign nobleman who didn't look the part. A model husband is a fellow who kin make his wife believe his excuses.

Abner Jones ran away with the hired girl about six months ago and now every time his wife hears a knock at the door she jumps. She is afraid the hired girl is bringing him back. It is getting so a woman kin make a salad out of almost anything and all salads taste alike with French dressing on 'em.

Quickly Relieves Without Distress

The congestion of waste and refuse from the stomach, fermenting in the bowels, generates poisonous gases that occasion distress and invite serious illness. Health and comfort demand that this congestion be speedily relieved and the foul mass expelled.

The well-founded objection most people have to the violence of cathartic and purgative agents is overcome by using the combination of simple laxative herbs with Pepsin that is sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. A dose at night brings relief next morning, without discomfort or inconvenience. A free trial bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 452 Washington St., Monticello, Ills.

OLD-TIME COLD CURE—DRINK TEA!

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieves congestion, also loosens the bowels thus breaking a cold at once. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

Why Beef Tea May Be Intoxicating. Liverpool physicians are interested in the case of a traveling salesman who shows every sign of alcoholic poisoning, although he is a teetotaler. His illness is ascribed to the excessive drinking of beef tea and other meat extracts, and the physicians believe that this indicates that nitrogenous stimulants have an effect on the system similar to that of alcohol.

GEORGE W. SLIGHTAM NAMED BY COUNCIL AS NEW INSPECTOR

Will Take Office as City Plumbing Inspector on February 15th—Duties of His Office Given.

W. Slightam was appointed by the council at their regular meeting yesterday afternoon as city plumbing inspector to take office on February 15th. The salary for this office will be fixed by the commission at their first meeting in February, at which time the salaries of all the city officials are considered.

Inspector Slightam will be provided with an office in the department of City Engineer Kersch and will be engaged in the work here or other work when directed by the council. His duties will be to regulate the installation, construction, alteration and inspection of plumbing and drainage. The plumbing inspector will have to be strictly in conformity with the state code as well as the city ordinance and will be subject to rigid inspection.

Under the ordinance no plumbing can be done in the city except in the case of repairing leaks and stoppages, unless a permit is obtained from the plumbing inspector. The plumbing inspector will have to make application to the city engineer for such a permit and on it will be issued. The plumbing inspector will have to make application to the city engineer for such a permit and on it will be issued. The plumbing inspector will have to make application to the city engineer for such a permit and on it will be issued.

It is the duty of the inspector to see that all the construction or alterations in plumbing work shall conform with the state code. Under the state law as well as the ordinance, no permit to install or alter plumbing in any building or on any structure, except leaks or stoppages, unless a permit is issued by the council.

The plumbing inspector is empowered to issue permits to the city health officer to order and direct changes of the plumbing in any building and the person refusing to comply with the ordinance is guilty of violating the ordinance. All plumbing work is to be inspected and cannot be closed until the work meets the approval of the inspector.

A fine of from five to one hundred dollars is allowed for a violation for the provisions of the ordinance.

The salary list for the month of January was allowed and orders drawn for the amounts.

W. H. Hoover, inspector, was allowed to use a portion of West Milwaukee street for storing building material during repairs on the Sutherland block.

The claim for damages made by Stanley E. and L. J. Peters was received, read and referred to City Attorney W. H. Dougherty.

On motion a meeting was adjourned until Friday.

WILL HEAR SPEAKER ON "TRENTON IDEA" AT ANNUAL BANQUET

Commercial Club Seesures Services of Noted Community Builder for Meeting Monday Night.

Arrangements were completed, last night for the annual meeting of the Janesville Commercial club. The banquet will be held at the Young Men's Christian association building on next Monday evening. It has been decided to hold the banquet at 6:30 o'clock, a half hour earlier than the time first decided upon.

Aside from the annual business program, the most important number of the evening will be the address by Thomas Whitten of Trenton, Mo., on "Community Building." Mr. Whitten, from the town which originated the "Trenton idea," the idea that a city should not only develop itself, but in addition develop the territory surrounding it. The name in itself is a byword throughout the United States and on somewhat smaller scales the "Trenton idea" is being practiced by a large number of city advancement associations similar to the local Commercial club.

Mr. Whitten's discourse will cover what Trenton has done and how Janesville can do likewise. Teamwork and aggressiveness will be the essential features of the "Show Me" program, a communication to the Bower City organization.

An orchestra composed of boys and girls, fostered by F. P. Lewis, will furnish the music for the dancing during the evening. The committee program is not fully arranged as yet. Members of the club will appear for short talks.

The annual election of officers and board of directors will be held. Projects of the city's further advance during the present year will be discussed and the policy to be followed outlined.

The committee on arrangements is composed of Joseph Connors, Amos Rehberg, George S. Parker, William H. Dougherty and Thomas E. Nolan.

The banquet and musical program for the presence of members of the Commercial club and all Janesville citizens who wish to participate.

Seating will be by the Chicago and North Western Railway during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1914. Moreover, this wonderful achievement was accomplished by an increase in the number of travelers carried as compared with the year before of nearly a million, or to be exact 2,927,000.

These statistics, indicating the extent of the record-breaking traffic handled with complete safety by this great railway system, over its 8,000 miles of line, have just recently been made public in the annual report of the company.

The exact total was 33,389,428, a striking increase over the 32,000,000 of over one-third of the entire population of the United States, as compared with a record of 32,441,451 in 1913, which also represented a large increase over the preceding years.

A clearer conception of the multitude of people represented in these figures may be obtained by observing that to transport the entire 33,000,000 at one time would require 558,450 coaches seating 60 passengers each, to carry them, and with seven cars in a train it would take 79,793 locomotives to haul the cars.

The total mileage traveled by the Chicago and North Western Railway passenger trains during the year was 21,537,781, or nearly one thousand times the distance around the earth.

Railway officials attribute the results to the safety habits which are instilled into their employees, and to the increasing co-operation of the public in the Safety First campaign.

Repertee at the Card Club.

At a card club the other day a woman tried to add the score, failed, and passed it to another woman, who likewise failed. The third added it without trouble. "Pardon me," said No. 1, sweetly, "but would you mind telling me whether you were a bookkeeper or a teacher before you were married?" "Neither," was the reply. "I was merely educated."—Kansas City Times.

To live avoid worry is no little task, especially for persons of a nervous temperament. Nevertheless, it is possible and can be attained through the ever conquering power of the will. Then, too, worry is one of beauty's greatest destroyers; it lines the face with furrows that are difficult to remove and far from pleasing to look upon.

A clearer conception of the multitude of people represented in these figures may be obtained by observing that to transport the entire 33,000,000 at one time would require 558,450 coaches seating 60 passengers each, to carry them, and with seven cars in a train it would take 79,793 locomotives to haul the cars.

The total mileage traveled by the Chicago and North Western Railway passenger trains during the year was 21,537,781, or nearly one thousand times the distance around the earth.

Railway officials attribute the results to the safety habits which are instilled into their employees, and to the increasing co-operation of the public in the Safety First campaign.

TO LIVE AVOID WORRY.

To live avoid worry is no little task, especially for persons of a nervous temperament. Nevertheless, it is possible and can be attained through the ever conquering power of the will. Then, too, worry is one of beauty's greatest destroyers; it lines the face with furrows that are difficult to remove and far from pleasing to look upon.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THE SOCIAL HIGHWAY—WOMAN.

There is a certain species of highway-man—usually by the way, they are of the greatest sex, so perhaps I'd better say highway woman—which, though it is less dangerous to society than the ordinary kind, is rather more obnoxious and annoying. I refer to those marauders who go about holding up their friends and acquaintances for information at the point of a conversation revolver. And that conversational revolver is a point blank question.

A letter friend tells me that she has one such acquaintance who stops at nothing. "How much rent do you pay?" was one of her holdups. And on still another occasion she fired the point blank question, "Is your sister engaged?"

Of course the most obvious way out is to refuse to answer. But this is not always so easy as it at first appears, for there are some questions which to refuse to answer is to answer. To be sure you can make her desire to know how much rent you pay by saying that you prefer not to tell her. But how about "Is there a mortgage on your house?" or "Is your sister engaged?" If you refuse to answer will not the inference be that silence gives assent?

Your Information of Your Reputation? Besides, the social highway-woman demands your information or your reputation. Give her one or she may try to take the other. And she is not at all a good person to anger.

Once upon a time there was a perfectly shameless highway-woman and she asked a young girl if she loved a young man who frequently called on her, enough to marry him. As the young man had never even remotely hinted that he wished to marry her, the girl was much upset at the question and told the social highway-woman that of course she didn't love him and that it was none of her business anyway. Whereupon the social highway-woman, who knew intimate friends of the man in question, revenged herself by permitting the information to leak through to him that the girl disliked him and was, with difficulty, concealing her aversion to his visits.

That was some years ago and the girl, after a period of grief at the break which followed, has since married a better man, but you can be sure that wasn't the social highway-woman's fault.

Of course we would like to ignore the social highway-woman or treat her with the scornful contempt which she deserves, but then that's what germs or snakes deserve, yet when you meet diphtheria germs or a rattlesnake you do not ignore them or treat them with scornful contempt.

What is one to do, then, with the social highway-woman? Don't ask me. I entirely lack the fibre to cope with her. Of course we—meaning society in the big sense of the word—ought to be able to punish the highway robbery with social imprisonment; in other words, ostracism, but I'm afraid we haven't yet reached that stage of civilization where such concerted action for the punishment of moral crime is possible.

IF HAIR IS TURNING GRAY, USE SAGE TEA

HERE'S GRANDMOTHER'S RECIPE TO DARKEN AND BEAUTIFY FADED HAIR.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It fades, turns gray, streaked and looks drab, weary and scraggly, just an application of two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Night had fallen. The long shadows of the pines crept across the road that skirted the edge of the forest. The sunlight had turned to a red glare in the west, against which the trunks of the trees were etched in distinct lines. A team was climbing the hill.

"So you're going to teach in Morse's school?" remarked the old man, slapping the lines on the horses' backs as they toiled up the stone road. "I teach in District No. 12," replied the girl at his side. "Yes, that's the Morse school," rejoined her companion. "Why do they call it Morse's school?" she asked.

"Oh, he runs it mostly. Of course there are two more directors, but they do as he says. You see, he owns the sawmill and the store and a big farm, and most of the houses at the Corners, and he takes a great interest in the school teachers," and the old man grinned, looking at the girl at his side out of the corner of his eye.

"Has he children in school?" she inquired. "No," he chuckled. "He ain't married. That's why he is so interested." He drove up to a frame house near the general store. The Corners was a discouraged looking attempt at a village, set in a clearing hugged about by the somber pines.

Mrs. Thorn, the landlady, was very garrulous and was not long before Muriel Fisk knew the entire history of Joe Morse, the catch of the surrounding country. She was told of the teachers of this same school whom he had made love to, proposed to, and made ridiculous by announcing at last that he "didn't mean anything serious."

"I thought I'd tell you, Miss Fisk," added the motherly woman. "I can't bear to see you made game of. I knew your father. I'd never have a thing to do with him if I were you."

"Thank you, Mrs. Thorn. I shall be on my guard," answered the girl. That evening Morse called, left the key to the school house, presented the contract to be signed, and incidentally looked the ground over, adding that a season of rare enjoyment was ahead of him.

"To Mrs. Thorn's disgust, Muriel went out riding with Morse the following Sunday, and he called during the week."

She had been teaching about a month and the girls in the neighboring farm houses had become familiar with her face and had grown accustomed to seeing her with Morse. They saw them pass one Sunday as they watched from behind the parlor curtains.

As they drove through the fragrant pine woods Morse slipped his arm around the girl's waist. "I see history is beginning to repeat itself," remarked Muriel, removing the arm with a degree of indifference that was utterly new to him.

"What do you mean?" he asked. "Do you for one moment suppose I have been at the Corners a month and not heard what a conquering hero you are? Why not vary the monotony by having one sensible friendship?"

"You carry your own little fire extinguisher right with you," he laughed. His eyes glowed. Here was a foe worthy of his steel.

He was silent for some time and his companion was enjoying the quiet beauty of the woods, when he suddenly threw his arm around her and kissed her cheek. The red flame to her face, but if he expected a demonstration, he was disappointed. She said nothing. They neared a clearing around a farm house and she said:

"I would like a drink of water." "Let me get it for you," he said, handing her the glass. He sprang out and disappeared in the house. Muriel climbed out and was busily engaged, feeding the pony clover when he returned.

"When he wished to help her into the buggy she said, 'I am going to walk back. I ride only with gentlemen,'" and she started toward the Corners.

"Miss Fisk," he cried, "I promise on my honor that you shall not be annoyed. Please get in." "Really, I prefer to walk. I am a good pedestrian," she answered without looking back. He turned the horse and soon caught up with her. "And you determined? It's four miles to town, and through the woods."

"I love the woods, and four miles are nothing," she replied. "Then I will walk with you," and he jumped out, trusting the horse to follow.

The next Sunday she declined to ride with him. He called on her the following week and told her that he interested him more than anyone he had ever met, only to be answered with a laugh. Is that reflex action? He persisted in his very strong opinion that he was in love with her. He could make no impression. Soon he became town talk that "Joe Morse had met his Waterloo," and a buzz of excitement it made.

"He spends his evenings proposing to the teacher," Mrs. Thorn reported. "And she certainly is enough for him." Muriel had a ride or two with him before school closed, for now her domination over him was complete. She even allowed him to take her to the station when she left and as she cheerfully waved goodbye he could not guess whether the future held any possibilities for him or not. He could only hope.

Household Hint

INEXPENSIVE MEAT DISHES. Delicious Breaded Pig's Feet—Twenty-four pickled pig's feet will serve six people. Beat up one egg to which has been added salt, pepper and a little water. Melt two heaping tablespoons butter, pour into cracker crumbs made of two 5-cent boxes of soda crackers. Place in double roaster, flat side up, with small piece of butter on each half; roast two hours. Mash, French fried or scalloped potatoes are very nice served with them.

Viel Tongues in Tomato Jelly. Boil fresh tongue in salted water until very tender; skin and form in ring; hold in place with fine skewer. Take quart can of tomatoes, place over fire in granite dish with stalk of celery, salt and white pepper to taste. Boil. Strain and mix with package of gelatine previously dissolved. Place tongue in round mold. When jelly is partly cool (before it begins to set) add one over tongue, set away in cold place to harden. To serve, turn out on platter, garnish with parsley. Cut in slices with very sharp knife.

Whole Calf's Liver en Casserole.—One whole calf's liver, 1 pound of bacon all through liver, also some slices on top; season to taste, add some butter, water and one onion if desired. Bake in medium oven in covered casserole, basting frequently. This is delicious and took first prize in a cooking contest.

Bacon, Eggs and Onions.—Beat up as many eggs as you would use for scrambling. Add a few green onions cut up fine, a little salt and red pepper. New cut sliced bacon in little pieces about one-fourth of an inch square, stir in, add above mixture, stirring until eggs are cooked. Serve while hot.

Meat and Tomato Pie.—Two cups ground cold meat put in baking dish, one cup dry bread crumbs on top, one pint tomato sauce on top of all. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Add a little hot water, then bake about one-half hour (not too hot over as meat has been cooked). Flank Steak Roast.—Ask butcher for a flank steak and have him cut pockets in it. Fill pockets with following dressing: One loaf bread (8-cent size), dip in water and press dry. Add one-half cup chopped onion, one-fourth cup melted butter, one large tablespoon salt, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one-fourth teaspoon nutmeg, one egg, one-half cup parsley cut fine, one cup celery tops cut fine. After filling pockets of flank, roll tight in a long roll and wrap in roaster, roast in hot oven from two to 2½ hours. Sprinkle with pepper, salt and flour, and baste often. Thicken gravy with flour.

Washing Curtains. Never give them hard rubbing. Always soak and sop out as much of the dirt as possible. Never starch fine lace curtains very stiff. The coarser the curtains the more starch they will require. Add borax to the starch to help hold the stiffening. Coffee, saffron may be added to the starch for color curtains, if their dark color is desirable. Always shake the dust from curtains before washing. Always squeeze the water from curtains when changing them from one water to another. Wash very old or fine curtains in a pillow case or other muslin bag. Measure the curtains before washing.

WORTH KNOWING. An old mop handle varnished up makes a good curtain pole. Lift poached eggs with an old-fashioned skimmer, which are always be served unbroken and good to look at. For Cleaning Bathtub and Bowl—Use a piece of wool flannel, such as is used for baby's skirts. Does away with scouring powders, which are injurious to enamel; also the disagreeable odor of gasoline and kerosene, which are very often used.

SPECIAL HEALTH SURVEY IS PLANNED BY HARPER. (SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Madison, Wis., Jan. 27.—Beginning with this month the state board of health will require the five deputy sanitary surveyors of each county, or at least a part of one county in each of the health districts. The sanitary condition of the home, including the water supply, the milk supply and the method of sewage disposal will be looked into. Dr. C. A. Harper, state health officer, today. "A general health survey will be made of the school conditions in the locality, with special reference to the health conditions in the school room and the general healthfulness of the school children."

Animal Jingles

FOR LITTLE FOLK BY ALICE CREW GALL

MOTHER MCGREW AND KATE KANGAROO. Kate Kangaroo was the liveliest child That you ever heard of, no doubt. She couldn't keep still, but would hop, skip and jump Till she very near wore herself out.

Each day when the animals to their meals, Till they got Kate Kangaroo to their meals, She always hopped in, out of breath.

On Sunday the animals walked off to church, And often they all had to stop Till they got Kate Kangaroo back into line. She just wouldn't walk—she would hop!

Then Mother McGrew would say, "Kate Kangaroo, I've scolded you time and again; I know that the hopping you do every day is bound to be bad for your brain."

But Katie was willful and so would not try To walk in a ladylike way, Till finally an accident happened to her When she went to a party one day.

If there's one place on earth where you'd try to be nice, A party's that place, it would seem. At Katie tried to hop from the door to her chair And upset the pail of ice cream!

Then Mother McGrew led her out by the ear, And took her off home double quick. "Since you like it so well, you shall hop all your days," And she tapped her three times with her stick.

A hop now and then is all right in its place, But it certainly does not seem to me That to have to hop always as Kangaroos do Would be tiresome—just try it and see.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl twenty-three years of age. I have been keeping steady company with a young man for five years and have been engaged to him for two months. We never had a quarrel until last night. He is very angry because another young man brought me home from choir practice one night with such a disposition? (2) My cousin was here last week and went to the show with him and this also angered by fiancé. Do you think if he really loved me he would be so jealous? (3) My dear girl, the common saying is that there can be no love without jealousy. Like better to say, there can be no jealousy without love. It is a kind of love, however, that lacks trust. Just as soon as there is common sense, jealousy disappears. Many men are jealous before marriage. Try and make the young man see that you are trustworthy and that it is an insult to doubt your constancy.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Will according pleated skirts be worn next spring and summer? What will be the leading spring color? ELISS. (2) According pleating is now very much in favor. It is rather early for spring styles and colors. They come out in February.

HOME CURE IS GIVEN FOR ERYSIPELAS BY MISS ELEANOR KING

Editor Janesville Gazette: I am going to ask you to be so kind as to publish the following statement in the Janesville Gazette. Every winter for several years I had continual attacks of erysipelas in my face. It was simply a fight all winter to keep it under control. With the beginning of cold weather it started again. I knew there was no permanent cure in the treatment I had used, so as an experiment I took a few sage leaves, put them in a basin and covered them with sweet milk, set the basin on the stove and let the boiling point, then removed from the stove, poured it in a saucer and to begin with, and the cure was complete. I recommended it to Mrs. Frank W. Cain and several others. In every case it has proved a success. While using the sage and milk treatment it helps if three cups of sage tea is drunk every twenty-four hours. As it was purely experimental with me I would like to give it all the publicity I can, as I understand there are several cases in this city at the present time.—Eleanor King.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—There Is More Than One Variety of Toothache, It Seems—

BY F. LEIPZIGER

THE MASTER KEY

By John Fleming Wilson

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT FOR THIS PAPER MADE WITH THE UNIVERSAL FILM MANUFACTURING CO. (Copyright, 1914, by John Fleming Wilson.)

CHAPTER XXXI "Only an Idol!"

WHEN the chest was hoisted on deck, dripping with ocean slime, corroded and mysterious, Harry Wilkerson stared at it stupidly. His mind went back down the years to that night when Thomas Gallon—scheming for his little daughter—had drawn a plan by candlelight, to the quarrel, to his own desperate flight and escape.

And now he was about to see for the first time the fatal paper—to know the secret of the wealth of the "Master Key." He forgot his surroundings.

It was Jean Darnell who recalled him to the present. She leaned over up a marlin spike. He began to pry at the lock. Mrs. Darnell angrily jerked at his shoulder.

"Henry, you fool, here is the key!" He took the article she handed him and nodded. "Sure enough," he assented, "we have the key! Funny I had forgot that."

With some difficulty he managed to clear the lock and insert the key. It turned with difficulty.

A moment later he had pried the lid back from its setting of rust and slime and they were all staring at the sodden contents.

There was no sound except the trundling of the swiftly revolving propeller and the heavy breathing of the sailors.

Suddenly Wilkerson swung round angrily and ordered everybody forward. Then he began his slow search.

Old jackets almost disintegrated by the action of water, pulpy papers and various odds and ends came to his hand. The pulp he carefully laid aside as being possibly what he was looking for.

"I'm afraid the plans are gone," Jean whispered.

"We must find them!" he snarled and went on with his task.

Halfway down he came upon a grotesque figure dripping with wood-sauce. It stiffly stared up at him as he held it.

"An idol!" laughed Mrs. Darnell. "Some sailor's curio. Well, go on. Idols don't talk."

An hour afterward Harry Wilkerson rose to his feet and kicked the scattered contents of the chest into the scuppers.

The idol rolled away and came to a stop upright against the bulwarks, when it presented glazed, mysterious eyes.

"No plans!" muttered Wilkerson with a curse.

"Only an idol!" laughed Jean in wild derision.

Then her handsome face flamed with wrath. She turned her back contemptuously on Wilkerson and stared across the water at the launch which was pursuing them.

In the bitterness of her heart was no mingling of pity for her fool; only self contempt that she had depended on him, helped him.

When she could control herself she went forward to get out of sight of the mocking heap of rubbish that had cost so much.

Presently a sailor made excuse to come aft and peered at the pile of junk. The idol caught his eye, and he stealthily caught it up and hid it in his shirt.

"Good in a pawnshop," he chuckled.

Thus once more the plans of the mother lode of the "Master Key" mine escaped from Wilkerson's fleeing fingers.

When the launch put into San Pedro Mrs. Darnell did not wait for Wilkerson.

"I'm going to Los Angeles," she said. "You'll find me at the hotel—if you think it worth your while."

He looked up from his business of settling with the divers and made a gesture to detain her. He seemed to call out some inarticulate plea.

She merely smiled again and left. She paid no attention to one of the sailors who brushed by her, clutching a concealed object beneath his jacket.

This individual, once clear of the water front, quickly made his way to a pawnbroker's shop, and the idol changed hands for a small sum after much haggling.

Before Wilkerson had settled with the diver John Dorr's launch also made its landing, and the two enemies would have met except that Wilkerson had to go to bank to cash a draft.

As he slipped away he saw the other boat and laughed bitterly. Dorr was welcome to what there was in the old chest.

"There is just one thing to do," John told the broken hearted Ruth, "and that is to find out what Wilkerson did with what he got from your father's chest."

The captain of the other boat received them with a good humored grin and in answer to their inquiries pointed to the open box and the articles scattered on the deck.

"So far as I could make out," he went on "there wasn't anything in the old chest worth the trouble of going after. At any rate Mr. Wilkerson and very many of them here, so it ought to be an easy matter to pick him up."

As they walked back to the hotel Ruth grew more cheerful. "At any rate, Wilkerson and Mrs. Darnell missed it," she remarked.

"I never understood just why that woman mixed herself up in this," John

"What is that?" demanded John. "An old idol. But I'm sure neither of them took it."

"But what became of it?" John continued, trying to conceal his anxiety.

"Maybe one of the men picked it up for a curio," the skipper said apologetically. "Everybody seemed to think the old thing was worthless, and you know a sailor will grab at just that kind of thing. Better ask some of the crew."

A few moments later Dorr had learned that one of the sailors had indeed taken the image and gone uptown with it, apparently to sell it.

John thanked the captain, and when he and Ruth were out of earshot he said thoughtfully. "You must have got some notion, Ruth. You were with her some time."

"All she is after is money,"

"Yes, I have an idea," she responded. "I'm not sure of all the details, but it seems Mrs. Darnell knew both father and Harry Wilkerson in the old days—and—"

"And what?"

Dinner Stories

He had become the happy father of twins, and his unbounded pride in this twofold distinctive blessedness found expression on every occasion.

While conversing with a friend one morning at the entrance to his office building a young woman passed wheeling a baby carriage containing a bouncing baby boy. "Doesn't a woman look queer," said the young father loftily "with only one child!"

When you begin to comment on the physical characteristics of a man's children, and yet desire to say something particularly effective, you sometimes have to resort to figures of speech.

This is particularly true when you intend to express an idea that may hurt your hearer's feelings.

For example—A friend dropped in to see a western farmer who was famous for seven seasons. One was the horrible, garish red of his hair. The other six consisted of the hideous, garish red of the hair of his six children.

"Sam," said the visitor, "you'll never have to worry about your children going hungry. Set 'em up on a fence any day and a woodpecker will feed them."

"The collection here seems very incomplete," remarked Mrs. Newrich, going through the museum.

"For one thing, I haven't seen a skull of Cromwell. They have a very fine one at the museum at Oxford, England."

"Of course I don't wish to put any obstacle in the way of your getting married," a mistress said to her servant, "but I wish it were possible for you to postpone it until I get another maid."

"Well, mum," Mary Ann replied, "I hardly think I know 'em well enough to ask 'em to put it off."

Lawyer—So you want to make a case of it?

Farmer—Yes, by jing! I offered to settle by fair means, an' he wouldn't. So I decided I'd hire a lawyer an' have him took into court.

New England's Pride.

Out of the scanty resources the good old "pilgrim mothers" found on the bleak shores of the new country, finally came the famous "New England boiled dinners," and all the expert cooks of two intervening centuries have not been able to improve on the cooking of those pioneers.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

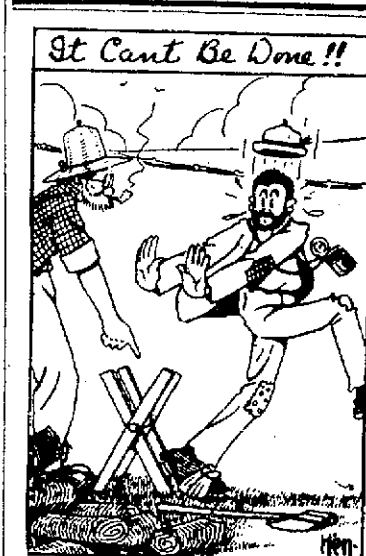

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—a headache—a torpid liver and are constipated, you will find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

Prescribed by doctor for the past 19 years

Resinol will stop that itch

THE moment that Resinol Ointment touches itching skin, the itching stops and healing begins. That is why doctors have prescribed it successfully for nineteen years in even the severest cases of eczema, tetter, ringworm, rashes and other tormenting, unsightly skin eruptions.

Added by warm baths with Resinol Soap, Resinol Ointment restores the skin or scalp to perfect health and comfort, quickly, easily and at little cost. Sold by all druggists.

Substitute for Lemons.

Some years ago my uncle, a physician in a small town, received a call to the country and asked me to accompany him, writes a correspondent.

The patient was the wife of a very miserly man who lived in the backwoods. My uncle advised the husband to give his wife good, wholesome food and to purchase some lemons for her. The husband said: "Won't pickles do just as well? I have pickles as sour as any lemon."

A GRATEFUL MOTHER

"My baby was very sick with a bad cold and would cough all night. Father John's Medicine cured him." (signed) Mrs. Phoebe Gregoire, 17 Phillips Street, Central Falls, R. I.

Father John's Medicine

HOW GOOD THAT MUSTEROLE FEELS!

It Gets That Sore Spot Like Magic

Ach! That's delicious relief for those sore muscles, those stiff joints, that lame back.

MUSTEROLE is a clean, white ointment, made with the oil of mustard and other home simples.

It does the work of the old-fashioned mustard plaster, minus the plaster and the blister!

You simply rub MUSTEROLE on the spot where the pain is—rub it on briskly—and the pain is gone.

No muss, no bother. Just comfort, soothing relief—first a gentle burn, then a delightful sense of ease. And best of all, no blisters!

The old-fashioned mustard plaster had to make.

There is nothing like MUSTEROLE for Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Tonsillitis, Croup, Stiff Neck, Asthma, Neuralgia, Headache, Congestion, Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Pains and Aches of the Back or Joints, Sprains, Sore Muscles, Bruises, Chills, Frosted Feet and Colds of the Chest. It often prevents Pneumonia!

At your druggist's, in 25c and 50c jars, and a special large hospital size for $2.50.

Be sure you get the genuine MUSTEROLE. Resist imitations—get what you ask for. The Musterole Company, Cleveland, Ohio.

LITTLE ACTIVITY IN TOBACCO WORLD

Warehouses Continue Receiving and Sorting—Latter with Moderate Forces—Storage Market Dull.

Pair sized forces constitute the tobacco sorting operations in Janesville at present. Receiving still continues but as a whole the arrival is at a low ebb for this time of year. A considerable portion of the crop is ready for delivery but the general tendency at all tangents in the tobacco world seems to be a general holding backward movement. The damp weather, together with the close of the week before last, was of too low temperature, resulting in no bringing of the hanging leaf to the east most desirable. From that time to the present there has been practically no opportunity for growers to work that portion of the crop still in the sheds.

Predictions of dealers that high prices would prevail at this time, met with no expectation, but in direct conflict to their looking forward to an awakening in the business during the middle of January, following the passing of the holidays, this latter prediction has thus far failed to materialize.

The fact is, as all buyers know, only too well that the 1914 crop in the Wisconsin growing districts did not come to the standard of former years. This is the true case but one which cannot be gotten into the craniums of the farmers. His crop is just as good as it ever was, to his version, and he's going to hold it for his price.

Be it so. Riders, scouting about for better leaf in the early fall knew conditions. The Wisconsin crop was suffering an off year. They took up the better grades and made contracts in very small numbers. The premier portions of the stock was grabbed quickly. Now the farmer will either have to take what he can get or keep the weed on his hands.

Edgerton reported the sale of a carload of cured to a Pennsylvania buyer last week. The McIntosh warehouse opened at the Tobacco City Monday.

The local storage market has been dull during the past week.

EXPLOSION OF SHELL SAVED GERMAN GUARD

Teacher Soldier Tells of Thrilling Battle With Mob of Turcos On Streets.

(Correspondence of The A. P.) Antwerp, Jan. 26.—A story told by a Berlin school teacher confirms what many have said about the bloodiness of the fighting which took place in the streets of Dikmude.

The teacher, and two other Berlin landwehr men—a lawyer and a publisher—were entering that little town in Flanders with other German soldiers by some of the main streets when they became the prey of Turcos in hiding. They darted from narrow streets and houses, and as eye witnesses relate, sprang upon the heavier Germans like so many tigers. The three Berlin landwehr men had just rounded one of the corners of the city hall, when they were separated from their comrades by a rush of Turcos from the fire station. There was nothing they could do but back into a door opening, and here they tried to keep a large crowd of yelling

Turcos at bay. What happened next is best told by the teacher, who now has the less exacting job of doing sentry duty on one of the local wharves, for which detail a rather large wound in the thigh is responsible.

"The Turcos went at us with might and main," he said. "I can still see their rolling eyes and white teeth. They seemed to literally thirst for our blood. But their yelling and shouting forced us to finish the three of us. Every time we put a bullet into one of them, or jabbed the bayonet home, the awful racket the fellows made with their leathered threats increased."

"But we kept on shooting into the crowd, delaying the end which seemed all too close."

"Finally one of us three, the publisher, went down with a shot in the head—skull fractured. The Turcos thought that now they would put an end to the business. So also thought a French officer, who went down a second later with the bayonet of the lawyer sticking in his chest. Then the lawyer went down. I was alone then, and thought it was all over."

"Just then a large flask rose from ground before me. The explosion which followed drowned the voices of the yelling Turcos. Then I went down—my thigh split wide open by one of the splinters of the shell."

"The spot was a sight, when I regained my senses. Dead and mutilated Turcos everywhere. We were found about eight o'clock that night, and none too soon. My comrades are still in the hospital. They are men over forty and not quite so likely to recuperate rapidly."

All three have been given the iron cross second class.

Describes the Hardships of Polar Exploration.

Telling of times when dog meat—and the meat of starved dogs—was at that—tasted better than any port or house steak he had ever eaten; picturing a region where the average velocity of the wind is fifty miles a hour; a burning flag goes to shreds in a few minutes; a flag of stoutest canvas is thrashed to pieces in an hour; and a flag of tin is battered out of shape in the first gale, so that sheet iron is the material that must be used; describing sea elephants that weigh sometimes as much as four tons each and measure 25 feet in length; showing the penguin rookeries so large and so numerous that that from a vantage point they seemed like vast pebble-strewn beaches, instead of bird colonies. Sir Douglas Mawson has presented before the National Geographic society one of the most remarkable stories of polar exploration that has ever come from those regions.

In his account of his researches along the great Antarctic continent discovered by Rear Admiral Charles Wilkes—who was the same Admiral Wilkes who figured in the historic "Trent" affair—held during the American Civil War, held during the British packet "Trent," and removed from her, Mason and Sidel—Sir Douglas adds tribute to the explorer

Mawson and his party undertook the work under the patronage of the Australian government. The steamship "Terra Nova," formerly plying in American waters, was the ship that carried them to their base and finally brought them away. A midway base with a wireless relay station through which the party could keep in touch with civilization, was established on a Marie island, which was on the old sailing ship route between Australia and Cape Horn, and whose beaches were strewn with the wrecks of many a ship.

The record base was established at Cape Denison, on the Antarctic continent, and a second base several hundred miles farther east.

Peasures were brought back by Sir Douglas showing the new place of a number of birds of passage, which go to the Polar Continent to nest and whose eggs have never been seen before. The birds and sea elephants were absolute strangers to the camera man with as much seeming interest as the camera man inspected them.

The character of the winds that blow on the edge of the Antarctic continent was graphically shown by the fact that the men had to lean upon it at an angle of perhaps 45 degrees, to walk in the ordinary wind, while no camera could record anything but a blank when the blizzard was at its height. The hut which was the headquarters of the party had one window, which was in the roof. The breath of the men and the steam from the kitchen caused this to become frosted over to a thickness of several inches. Men going out to take the records of the climatological instruments, had to break the ice that froze before their faces, from one side of their heads to the other, and pictures showing how their faces were covered with great patches of frost, told an eloquent story of suffering.

But the scene was not all sombre. The cells were of metal refrigerator, and consisted simply of the space under the floor of the hut. When the cook wanted a piece of meat he would send a dog down to get a penguin or a leg of mutton, and would take it away from him as he came up with a leg of the dog got away with a leg of mutton, which was rescued only after a chase of two hours; and then it was so damaged that the party voted to give it to the dogs after all. Reading matter was in great demand. One Britannica through to the O's.

On one occasion Sir Douglas set out with Dr. Mertz and Lieutenant Ninnis on a coast-chasing expedition. After going about 300 miles Ninnis and his sledges were lost in a great crevasse. Hours of calling brought no response, and the smashed-to-pieces sledge at the bottom told a painful story of his fate. Thereafter Mawson and Mertz turned around and all the dogs were by camp. They ate all the dogs except one. They were only one dog left—Old Ginger. "Old Ginger" was a noble animal," said Sir Douglas, "and he was game to the last. But when he died of that hunger of the Antarctic, I had to eat his carcass. We ate the body parts first, breaking every bone so as to get out the marrow. Then we ate the meat, but not sound well, for the distance, or when one is this far removed from the ultimate hunger in which the stomach seems to attack its very self, but there it fasted as good as anything you ever ate."

Finally Mertz began to sicken and to weaken, and in a few days, January 17th it was he died, almost turned cannibal, so starved-out was my condition, but with it all I buried him, and then started back on the journey. I started with a heavy load, and I was very sore of body and sick of mind. It was more crawling than walking, but I was able to get back to camp, only to see the Aurora disappearing over the horizon. It had left provisions for me, however, and six men to search for me. Nothing but Providence saved me from the fate of Mertz and Ninnis.

Sir Douglas showed pictures of beds of coal that tell of a time when a tropic summer once reigned in the great home of the blizzards, and of revealing great ice cliffs with the stratified snows of a hundred winters upon them, each stratum standing as clearly as though it were a different stratum of sedimentary rock.

Wise Wife. "You persuaded your husband to join a glue club?" "Yes," answered Mrs. Higgins; "when he starts to sleep at home I can now advise him not to tire his voice, and when he sings in the club I can't hear him."

EMPEROR WILLIAM IS 56 YEARS OLD TODAY

GERMAN RULER CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY BY CHEERING SOLDIERS FIGHTING AT FRONT.

ISSUES TWO DECREES

Two Military Decrees Regulating Punishment of Soldiers Issued by German Emperor Today.

Berlin, via wireless to London, Jan. 27.—Two birthday decrees of amnesty were issued by Emperor William today, the 56th anniversary of his birth. The first releases the active military on the disciplinary punishment imposed upon them by court martial with a limit of six months' imprisonment; the second decree annuls the prosecution of soldiers for offenses committed previous to the receiving of their call to arms.

Although this was the kaiser's birthday there was little information of the day's military activities, the latest report available making it appear that the emperor's troops were endeavoring to win for him a gift in the shape of a victory at arms. Two days ago, the disciplinary punishment imposed upon them by court martial with a limit of six months' imprisonment; the second decree annuls the prosecution of soldiers for offenses committed previous to the receiving of their call to arms.

Emperor William II has the distinction today of celebrating his 56th birthday of being more able to wield power for good or evil than any ruler since the first Napoleon. No man in history has aroused so much discussion. He is followed everywhere to be the central figure in the war.

This man of whom everyone is talking was born on January 27, 1859. His father was Frederick III, his mother, the Princess Victoria of Great Britain. When his father died on June 15, 1888, after a short reign, he succeeded to the throne. He married Princess Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein, who is three months older than he, on February 27, 1881. They have seven children, six princes and one princess.

William II is a many-sided man. With a capacity for hard work and long hours combined with a mind quick to grasp essentials he would have succeeded in almost any business or profession. As a ruler, whether he is a success or a failure, the war broke out, at least, he was thoroughly in love with his work and arose at five o'clock in the morning in order to do his duty as possible. "We Hohenzollerns know nothing about dressing gowns," is a saying of his.

Plans Program Carefully. His program for each month is always carefully planned far ahead. Of course, the war has cut into his ordinary routine. In fact, the death of the Austrian Archduke compelled him to return from Norway where he always spent his annual yachting trip. He is a prodigious reader and on his table may be found American, British and French magazines and newspapers as well as German. His favorite books are those dealing with history and economics. For recreation he reads Latin and Greek poetry. Horace and Homer being his favorites.

He has a clear, strong voice and his recent illness does not seem to have affected it—despite reports to the contrary. Furthermore, the emperor likes to use his voice in loud singing of hymns or in delivering flowery sermons to his family and crew on the "Hohenzollern," his yacht, or at one of the palace.

Great Military Monarch. But it is in the role of the military man that William will be remembered longest and his birthday today sees him engaged in a struggle which is the climax of that training which began with his boyhood days when he was given a miniature frigate, the Royal Louise, with which he might play. Since that time he has reviewed troops, supervised manoeuvres, studied tactics and encouraged military and naval efficiency on the ground that the best preparation for peace is to prepare for war. His many portraits show him almost invariably in uniform.

His interest in naval affairs has always been unceasing. "Our future lies on the water," is a saying of his which he first pronounced many years ago. And he has tried to keep pace with other countries in building up a large navy.

Today Emperor William stands as the last of the great monarchs—a poverly who is more like the eight rulers of old than any other ruler in Europe with a disappointed belief in the Divine Right of Kings. His hair is grayer than it was a year ago—and the grayness was commented upon then in the cablegrams, he is a little stouter and his health is probably not as vigorous as it once was.

Wilson Sends Congratulations. Washington, Jan. 27.—President Wilson today sent a message to Emperor William congratulating him on his 56th birthday. The message follows:

"In behalf of the government and the people of the United States, I have the pleasure to extend to your majesty cordial felicitations on this anniversary of your birth, as well as my own good wishes for your well-being." Signed, "Woodrow Wilson."

CROWN PRINCE AIDS "HIS" SOLDIERS MUCH

Invaders Receive Many Gifts From Merchants—Prince Shows His Democratic Spirit.

Berlin, Jan. 26.—Though already known throughout Germany as a most democratic young man, the German crown prince's reputation in that respect has become more general since the outbreak of the war.

The telegrams he has sent home to various newspapers, asking them to make collections of cigars, rum and many other things for "his" soldiers are scores in number, nor has he omitted in a single instance to thank the public and publisher for their efforts.

Fritz Schmidt, grand master of the Berlin Master Bakers' Association, who has just returned from the eastern theater of war where he went to deliver three carloads of Christmas gifts to the Berlin bakers, also presented the crown prince with six baskets of Christmas cakes and other products of the bakers' oven. He tells how he was received by the crown prince shortly after his arrival at headquarters.

"I was taken to a large room, where I unpacked my baskets, putting their contents on a large table covered with a clean tablecloth," said the master baker.

"I was hardly through with this when the crown prince came in. There was nobody with him, and he looked quite healthy and fit. I conveyed him the greetings of the Berlin master bakers, and thanked him for having accepted our present. He also told him that we had sent three carloads of 'stollen' to the army."

"The crown prince said he knew of that and was pleased to inform me that the three carloads had arrived on the day before."

"The crown prince was very pleasant, and we came to talk on some of the losses which certain regiments had sustained."

"I know that," remarked the crown prince. "Some of them have lost heavily. But that can't be helped. We've got to win."

GIVE BIRTHDAY DINNER IN HONOR OF GOMERS.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE) Washington, Jan. 27.—In honor of Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, who today celebrated his 65th anniversary, a birthday dinner tonight was planned, with speeches by prominent labor leaders here and in Congress. Secretary of Labor Wilson was expected to attend.

RESERVE BANK BOARD GIVES FIRST REPORT

SYSTEM CAN NO LONGER BE TERMED EXPERIMENT ACCORDING TO REPORT READ IN SENATE TODAY.

APPLICATIONS PENDING

Large Number of Banks and Trust Companies Are Awaiting Only the Entrance Regulation.

Washington, Jan. 27.—The first report of the Federal Reserve Board covering the developments which preceded the opening of the twelve regional reserve banks last November and the two months in which they have been in actual operation, was sent to Congress today. It announces that noteworthy results already have been accomplished and that the system now "cannot be regarded as experimental in the sense that there is any uncertainty as to the outcome."

No legislation is asked for, the Board devoting its report chiefly to an outline of how the new system has strengthened the Nation's financial situation. "Less than five months have elapsed," says the report, "since the introduction into our financial system of the most far-reaching change that has been made in the field of American banking since the passage of the National Banking Act, less than two months have gone by since the Federal Reserve Banks actually opened for business. The system, however, is in operation and has already produced results of the most noteworthy character."

No Longer An Experiment. "There is much yet to be done, but the work cannot be regarded as experimental in that sense. There is any uncertainty as to the outcome. The only question is as to how rapidly it will be possible to develop the full capabilities and resources of the Federal Reserve System. Its potentialities are vast and should be developed immeasurably in the future to the solidity, stability and flexibility of the American credit system."

The question, however, naturally suggests itself as to how it is to be done; what is the proper place and function of the Federal Reserve Banks in our banking and credit system? On the other hand, it is reported that they are usually emergency banks to be resorted to for assistance only in time of abnormal stress; while on the other it is claimed that they are in essence simply additional banks which should compete with the member banks, especially with those of the greatest power. The function of a reserve bank is not to be identified with either of these extremes, although occasions may arise when one or the other of these may be imperative. It is not to prevent them, but to avoid them by anticipation to do what it can to prevent them.

"So also," the report continues, "in industry or agriculture, or in the opinion of the Federal Reserve Board, burdened unduly with excessive interest charges, it will be the clear duty of the Reserve Board acting through the discount rate and open market policy to secure a wider diffusion of credit facilities at reasonable rates."

"The Reserve Board," it says, "is of supreme importance in the conduct of a reserve bank. Only then will it constantly carry the promise of being able to protect business against the harmful stimulus and consequences of inflation, and against the menace of unnecessary restrictions and unnecessary contractions. It should at all times be a steady influence, leading when and where leadership is requisite but never allowing itself to become an instrument for the promotion of the selfish interests of any private or sectional group, be their aims and methods open or disguised."

"Time and experience will show what the general variations in the credit demands and the needs of the reserve banks of the several districts will be and when and to what extent a reserve bank may, without violating its special function as a guardian of the banking system, engage in banking and credit operations."

The vast and complex structure of modern banking and credit systems, of the kind which is being built up in this country, has never been overlooked that it is highly sensitive to all manner of disturbances as recent events have painfully demonstrated. The banking systems of the larger nations are closely related to one another and financial distress or collapse at one point quickly permits shock to all others. Safety for us in critical times will depend on the strength of our system, the soundness of its reserves, and its power to bring them into action promptly and effectively if needed.

Must Act Promptly. "In dealing with new districts and entirely changed banking methods, time and experience alone can supply the data necessary for charting the course to be pursued. This consideration, if anything else would suggest the greatest patience and forbearance even if the European nations were less clouded than it is today. None the less, the Board realizes that there are extraordinary conditions warrant extraordinary measures. It is the foremost duty of the Board and banks to act promptly and boldly."

The Board refers briefly to open market operations of the reserve banks and announces that regulations governing the purchase of securities will soon be made public. With the issue of these regulations, the report says, there will be ample employment for all funds of these banks, which experience demonstrates they may safely and properly invest at times when such funds are not absorbed in responding to the demands of commerce, industry and agriculture.

The Board points out that another pressing problem, that of admission of state banks and trust companies to the system, is receiving consideration and that at least a tentative solution of the problem at large may be arrived at in the near future. The report shows that ninety-three state banks and trust companies with aggregate capital and surplus of $9,151,306 have been converted into National banks and entered the system since the passage of the act. Nine state banks and four trust companies with capital and surplus of $17,884,000 have been admitted under their own charters with the understanding that they will accept regulations for the conduct of business made by the Board. Applications from fifty-one other such institutions which prefer to wait for the issuance of regulations governing their admission are pending before the board.

Opening Wisely Timed. The report reviews the steps which led up to the decision to put the banks in operation November 16, declaring that after getting opinions from a great variety of sources, it found such a diversity that it was guided by its own estimate of the proper moment. "Events have since shown," it says, "that the opening of the institutions was wisely timed to synchronize with the restoration of activity in our export trade. When the financial anxiety which prevailed during the latter part of the past summer and the difficulty of getting banking accommodations at reasonable rates, even upon security of undoubted solidity, are recalled, the substantial improvement which has taken place since becomes evident, and is a remarkable tribute not only to the recuperative power of American commerce and industry, but also and largely to the beneficial operation of the new banking system."

HAS A SUBSTITUTE FOR EUGENICS TEST

Assemblyman Pleper Would Require Personal Statement of Both Parties to Marriage Contract.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE) Madison, Wis., Jan. 26.—Assemblyman Pleper announced today that there was a general misconception regarding the measure which he would introduce in the legislature this week, regarding the eugenics marriage law. He has issued a letter which sets forth his reasons for the changes in the present law.

"My bill repeals the present law and leaves conditions just where they were before it was passed," says Mr. Pleper's statement, "but it requires the parties contemplating marriage to sign a statement in which they affirm upon their honor that they are free from the social disease. No oath or anything of the kind is required. My object in requiring this affirmative is to prevent the schools from meddling with teaching sex hygiene, and putting the contracting parties on their guard. The disease which my bill would suppress is one of which the scriptures say that the sin of the parents is visited upon the children in the third and fourth generations. It is a disease which is the impurity of one of its parents is an object of pity and if my bill should pass and I am satisfied it will prevent a small part of the evil, I shall well be repaid and I am sure that the people who sent me here will sanction my action if they are acquainted with the real purpose of the bill."

WAR TO LINK INDIA CLOSER TO ENGLAND

Wounded Indian Soldiers Have First Sight of London When Recuperating at Camps.

(Correspondence of The A. P.) London, Jan. 26.—Convalescent Indian soldiers are being given an opportunity for sightseeing in London and roundabout. Parties of twenty-four at a time are being sent from the Indian quarters on the coast.

Each party is composed of men of a single race, escorted by an English officer able to speak their language. They visit the Tower of London, St. Paul's Cathedral, the Houses of Parliament, Buckingham Palace, some of the parks and one of the large department stores. Careful provision is made for complying with the mental, racial customs, dietary habits and caste restrictions.

The Hindus dine at a private house as guests of a Hindu living here, where they are served on aluminum plates, the ordinary china ware being objected to. The Mohammedans have their meals at the Indian government's London headquarters.

Three of India's Ruling Princes have just left London after a visit here. They are the Maharajahs of Bikaner, Kishanpore, and Jodhpur. The two former returned to France, while the latter is only 18 years old, took passage for Egypt, where his regiment of Lancers is serving.

The Maharajah of Bikaner underwent a minor surgical operation while in London. He commands a camel corps which has seen service in a dozen campaigns since 1900, when he took it over. Its latest exploit was a successful encounter with a Turkish camel corps near the Suez canal. The camel corps remains in Egypt, while its commander is temporarily attached to the British General Staff in France. His Highness speaks English, and granted an interview to newspapermen during his stay in London.

"I find up-to-date warfare as waged in Flanders extremely depressing in its monotony," he said. "It is exhausting to a man trained to arms to have so little opportunity of seeing his enemy. The Indian soldiers, accustomed to operations in mountainous regions, deserve great credit for so quickly adapting themselves to the discomfort of standing hour by hour in the trenches, often knee-deep in water.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE APOLLO.

"The Circus Man" Tonight. "The Circus Man," which will be seen at the Apollo tonight, is a magnificent play of life in the sawdust ring. It is full of American circus atmosphere and has been produced most realistically by the Jesse L. Lasky studio. This company has a wonderful reputation for beautifully photographed motion pictures, and this is one of the best. Two shows will be given. At 7:30 and 9 o'clock. "The Circus Man" is taken from the novel by George Barr McCutcheon, "The Rose in the Ring."

AT MYERS THEATRE. The most important musical and theatrical event of the current season will unquestionably be the appearances in this city on Monday and Tuesday, February 8 and 9, at Myers Theatre, of De Wolf Hopper and the famous Gilbert and Sullivan Opera company in spectacular revivals of "The Mikado," "Pirates of Penzance," "Trial by Jury" and "Patience."

He comes here with this splendid operatic organization direct from the Auditorium, Chicago where he is now playing his annual engagement. Not since the famous Bostonians were in the first flush of their success has such a perfectly balanced operatic organization as the Gilbert and Sullivan Opera Company been heard in this country. For four consecutive seasons Mr. Hopper and his associates have played spring engagements in the Casino Theatre in New York attracting not only superlative praise from the foremost musical critics of the country but enjoying phenomenal popular success as well. Each year they have followed this New York engagement with a comprehensive tour from coast to coast visiting only the most important centres of population. Now, for the first time, they are visiting a few of the smaller cities. Only two weeks are allotted to a tour of the cities within a radius of 200 miles of Chicago. Then the organization goes on to Philadelphia and Boston for a brief season preliminary to the annual engagement in New York.

A recitation of these facts should convince local music lovers and theatregoers that the appearance of Mr. Hopper and his associates here is an event of supreme importance. The beautiful productions of these operas now being shown in Chicago and the company appearing there will be brought to this city intact.

It is hardly necessary to comment at length upon the unique talents of Mr. Hopper, who is admittedly the foremost comic opera comedian on the English speaking stage. His Ko-Ko in "The Mikado," his Dick Deadeye in "Pinafore," his Judge in "Trial by Jury" and his Sergeant of Police in "The Pirates of Penzance" are conceded to be the finest bits of comic impersonation which he has ever attempted.

AT MYERS THEATRE. Movie fans are promised a rare treat in the new serial "The Master Key" which starts at Myers Theatre, Friday matinee, January 29th, and which is unquestionably John Fleming Wilson's greatest thrill-masterpiece. The spirit of the great west runs wild through this wonderful story. There are big men, strong men, heroic men, and women who perform the most thrilling and heroic deeds so close to realism as to deceive the idea of make-believe. The great Wilson romance enacted by men and women who stand at the head of the moving picture profession and promises you thrill after thrill and most absorbing action. The story of the Master Key appears daily in The Gazette.

New—positively new in every respect—from the curtain line to the back wall of its stage investiture and even to the very flowers that serve as festoons in the flower festa at Nice, is said to be true of the enormous all star revival of "Pirates of Penzance" which will be seen at Myers Theatre Tuesday evening, February 2. This ever welcome attraction is rich in the legacy of the purest of harmony and its success is the bond of good music. Of the famous original cast John W. Ransome plays his old part of Hans Weather. Dorothy Delmore the bellboy, and Edward T.

Edna von Luke in "The Prince of Pilsen" at Myers Theatre, Tuesday Evening, February 2nd.

More the handsome Prince. The chorus, always a factor in the success of a musical entertainment is said to be a veritable garden of loveliness. To insure a correct interpretation of the delicious score there will be a special orchestra under the direction of Victor Clark. Seats for all performances will be placed on sale at the box office tomorrow morning.

LYLE PATTERSON DIES; VICTIM OF PNEUMONIA.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Evansville, Jan. 27.—Lyle Patterson passed away last night near midnight at his home in this city after a week's illness with pneumonia. His condition had not been alarming and his family had entertained hopes for his recovery.

Mr. Patterson was born on a farm near Brooklyn in 1875. When a young man he was married to Bernice Lloyd of Evansville and for a number of years they lived on a farm near here. Two years ago he retired from the farm and made this city his home. For the past month he had been actively engaged in the Evansville Clothing company. He was a man of recognized ability and sterling character.

Besides his wife he leaves two children, a son, Athol and a daughter, Marie. His mother, Mrs. A. Patterson, lives in Evansville as do two brothers, Marvin and William Patterson. A third brother, Dr. Leon Patterson lives at Green Bay.

Funeral services will be held at two-thirty Friday afternoon at the home, Rev. Coon officiating. Interment will be in Maple Hill cemetery.

Evansville, Jan. 27.—The annual stockholders' meeting of the Baker Mfg. company was held yesterday at one-thirty p. m. at the city hall, the meeting being called to order by President Baker. After the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting, the business report for the year 1914 was read. It showed that the past year's business has exceeded that of all previous years, and was an increase over the 1913 year's business. The sales of the company's goods in the past year, in round figures, have amounted to about six hundred and twenty thousand dollars. All employees who have worked for 4,500 hours for the company, were entitled the generosity of the profit sharing plan. Ninety percent of the employees and preferred stockholders' earnings, in addition to the regular wages, was allowed in stock and ten percent was given in cash. Thus the amount of profit on earnings derived by employees and preferred stockholders amount to about $6,800. Last year seventy percent was given in stock, which means that the increase in profit sharing this year is nearly thirty percent over last year. The following directors were re-elected to succeed themselves for three years: E. C. Lybott, Frank Hubbard, George E. C. Lybott, and others. The meeting was adjourned and the directors' annual meeting was held immediately afterward. At the company's office the following officers were elected: J. S. Baker, vice president and general manager; J. M. Didenberger, secretary; J. Christman, superintendent of Watertown, city engineer, is in the city surveying the land which will probably be affected by the overflow of water from Lake Janes when restored. The increasing interest and enthusiasm over the restoration of the lake has brought about the desire for knowing the approximate cost of the project. The proposition and figures will be submitted to the voters of the city and there is not the slightest doubt but that the much-needed lake will be restored.

When the Germans were driven out of the city by the English she continued as mayor, despite the bombardment, which began immediately and has continued ever since.

PASTOR ARRESTED IN CHICAGO RIOT

Rev. Father Irwin St. John Tucker.

The Rev. Father Irwin St. John Tucker, an Episcopalian minister, was arrested during the recent bread riot of unemployed in Chicago. He carried the banner, "Give us this day our daily bread," joining the ranks of the marchers by running into the street from the sidewalk after he saw the banner fall torn into the street. It had been wrangled from the hands of four girls during a melee in which the marchers and police were involved.

SPEAKER TELLS WHY PEOPLE CATCH COLD

CHICAGO PHYSICIAN GIVES ADDRESS AT MEDICAL MEETING LAST NIGHT.

KEEP DOWN THE DUST

And Stop Spread of Disease, He Urges—Dr. Brown Tells of Sanatorium in New Mexico—100 Present.

An audience of one hundred, including doctors of Rock county and Janesville citizens interested in the subject "Catching Cold," discussed by Dr. Arthur M. Corwin of Chicago, were present last evening at the regular meeting of the Rock county Medical association at the city hall. "To count health of first importance is truistic," commented Dr. Corwin, "and yet it seems wonderful to emphasize the truth again and again in the light of the total disregard with which we treat many of its fundamental laws. This disregard is based partly upon ignorance, partly upon bravado, for few people appreciate good health until they have lost it.

"To cure a disease is a dramatic episode and a source of ready recompense to the doctor if he collects his bill while the patient's gratitude is still green. But to prevent disease is infinitely better, though less remunerative to the practitioner. To this problem of prophylaxis modern medicine is committed. The profession, therefore, is very much in the position of one who sits upon the limb of a tree and proceeds to saw it between himself and the trunk. We are to consider the causes of a most familiar, perhaps the most common disorder with which people are afflicted.

"Colds are variable in distribution, severity and character, often so far reaching in their effects as to lead to find, analyze and classify their cause is worth while, as pointing the only way for their prevention and cure.

"We say, 'we caught cold.' Did we or did the cold catch us? I suspect that we catch some colds and that some of them catch us. The term 'cold' or 'cough' has been used so loosely by the patient and the doctor almost every affliction of the respiratory tract, undue exposure of certain muscles to unaccustomed strain may give so-called 'croup' or 'pleurisy' or 'lumbago' in my neck, side or back. So the public has come to apply this little title to an attack of gout, or rheumatism, a running or painful nose, a sore throat, an inflamed eye, or to an overaction of the kidneys or intestines.

"The predisposing factors may be conveniently covered by six generic terms, with the understanding that the distinction between predisposing and exciting agents are not to be too sharply drawn in the use of these terms. But as suggestive ideas under which to group associated principles of causation, these six are: practical and easily remembered: three of them are environmental, extrinsic: dust, dampness, dehydrated air; three are intrinsic, wrapped up in the individual: debility, defective nasal drainage and diathesis.

"Dust covers all occupations such as upholstery, coal handling, janitor service, in the city and in the country. The vacuum cleaner as one of the greatest agents of modern reform, is being away with the dust, that is often times the cause for consumption, is his idea regarding dust.

"Dampness, with sudden change from warm to cold, is a second factor in the preparation of the soil for the most active casual agents of cold catching. In general terms, houses and offices must not be over-heated. Light weight underclothing, whether of cotton, wool, silk or linen, with the use of heavy wraps for outside wear, is to be discarded. The legs should be protected by relatively heavier garments and the feet always kept warm and dry. The morning cold or tepid bath or sponges with brisk friction of the surface, is extremely important to keep the skin normal in circulation, secretion and excretion, and ought to be popular instead of a rarity.

"Dehydrated air, dependent upon improper ventilation, is the third fertile environmental agency for lowering vitality and inviting colds. The subject of ventilation is a huge one, the essentials of which are too often overlooked by physicians and poorly understood by the public.

"Employers should appreciate the advantage of installing up-to-date systems of ventilation to protect their labor from epidemics of colds and decreased efficiency. Labor will eventually demand it. All men are entitled to pure water, pure food, and freedom to think and should make a fight for it whenever necessary. The street car, sleeping coach and public hall are appropriate places to wage the campaign. Don't be afraid to be considered a fresh air crank.

"Defective drainage and ventilation of the upper air passages by reason of adenoids, is a serious handicap, intrinsically and directly responsible for frequent colds in the head.

"Debility from bad habits, in the use of depressing drugs; from poor food, over eating and faulty methods of eating; from over work, built by exercise and want of enough sleep; debility from accidents or disease which sap the strength; ill health from any cause, by diminishing the power of resistance invites infection of the upper air tracts.

"Diathesis, from a Greek word meaning to be disposed, is a term which we doctors sometimes find convenient to cover up our ignorance of ultimate conditions, just as we say 'idiopathic' when there is no cause in sight.

Talk on Sanatorium. A new proposition was opened to the Rock county doctors at the close of Mr. Corwin's address by Dr. Jones, head of the Valmore Sanatorium, located at Watrous, New Mexico.

For the benefit of those who know nothing of the sanatorium at Watrous, a little explanation is necessary. This sanatorium was originally built by thirty-eight of Chicago's largest concerns, including the packing houses, Marshall Field's and other large establishments. Dr. Brown has allowed the Rock county to be included in with the thirty-eight Chicago concerns. Patients in moderate circumstances in this county may be entitled to the excellent care and conveniences of this sanatorium. Dr. Brown said, if there is room for them. Of course the Chicago establishments have the first right to send patients there, since they have invested $50,000 into the buildings and equipment of the institution.

Dr. Brown makes a special trip to Chicago every ninety days, from the south, to talk to the employees of these thirty-eight concerns. He also makes investigations into each concern to sanitary conditions, etc. The work is successful, and local county doctors are pleased at the new proposition tendered Rock county by Dr. Brown.

THE GOLDEN EAGLE'S GREAT REMODELING SALE

We must clear out this merchandise and keep business booming while this store is torn up, making room for our new departments of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Ready-to-Wear, Furnishings and Dry Goods; when completed the finest in the city. Our sales of the past have won attention and friends for us by reason of liberal underselling of Sterling qualities. This sale should surpass any previous event, because the stock is larger than any we've ever shown. It's the greatest sale we've ever inaugurated in this city—an unparalleled sacrifice of quality clothing and shoes—and merits the quick attention of everyone. Figure out your savings on this basis:

Men's And Young Men's Shawl Collar Chinchilla Overcoats $18 and $20 Values $12.45
These large, roomy, handsome overcoats are excellent storm coats. Beautifully tailored in brown, grey and blue chinchilla with large shawl collars, with belt. Nothing near as good ever before offered at such a low price.

We Will Pay One Dollar Each For True Stories of Successful Sales from Gazette Auction Advertising

The Gazette hears from time to time of the wonderful success secured by owners through the use of Gazette advertising for their auctions. For years this has been the case. If we could get short, truthful stories of these successes they would make interesting reading to those who are preparing for future sales. We are not seeking stories which will show writing ability, but we want plain facts and truths written in a plain way. The simple straightforward story of your success as a Gazette auction advertiser is what we want and we will pay for each

ONE DOLLAR

The stories must be genuine. While you must give your real name and address, if your story is accepted and you do not wish us to we will not publish your name.

Don't put off sending the story. If you have the facts in your mind now from previous sale, sit right down and write them out and send them in and you will receive the money. Write us immediately after future sales. Mail your letters to the

Auction Department Janesville Daily Gazette

The Janesville Gazette has come to be recognized as the logical medium for advertising auctions. By the use of this paper three-fourths of the homes of Rock County can be reached. It is the only means by which the entire county can be covered with an advertisement and you have got to cover the entire county to advertise your sale properly. Bills cover only a limited section. Your neighbors know about your auction anyway so it is necessary to reach out farther.

ENGAGEMENT
EXTRAORDINARY

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE PUBLIC OF SOUTHERN WISCONSIN:

It gives me great pleasure to announce that on Monday and Tuesday evenings, February 8th and 9th, and on Tuesday afternoon, February 9th, I have secured the most important Light Opera attraction ever presented to the citizens of Southern Wisconsin. The De Wolf Hopper and Gilbert and Sullivan Opera Company direct from a three weeks' engagement at the Auditorium Theatre, Chicago. This will be, beyond any question, the greatest musical event that has ever been offered to our music loving people. Mr. Hopper stands today as one of America's leading Comic Opera comedians and his supporting company is considered by the metropolitan press of New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore and Chicago as the greatest musical attraction now before the American Public. Janesville is one of the few favored cities that will have the honor of hearing this magnificent attraction and it is directly through my efforts that the citizens of Janesville and neighboring cities will have the great pleasure of hearing this world's famous organization.

(Signed) PETER L. MYERS.

DE WOLF HOPPER
as "Dick Deadeye" in "Pinafore"

PRAISE FROM THE PENS OF THE LEADING CRITICS:

The leading dramatic critics of the Chicago press have been lavish in their praise of De Wolf Hopper and the Gilbert and Sullivan Opera Company who are now appearing at the Auditorium Theatre. The following tell the story:

Mr. Hopper's Koko
Is Again Enjoyed.

De Wolf Hopper and his Gilbert and Sullivan singers Thursday night arrived at the Auditorium "The Mikado," or "The Town of Titipu," which has held the stage for thirty years. It was easily the masterpiece of genuine opera-bouffe which it was first sung in March, 1885; there are few who will dispute that it remains just that—the best comic opera, considered from all angles, which has been staged in any land.

Sullivan is held by the pundits to have done a more musically thing in the score of "The Yeomen of the Guard," soon to be displayed again. Gilbert's fun was sometimes finer, more searching, and subtler, than in this tale of the tailor of Titipu.

But the distinction of the work is the outcome of the perfect harmony in which librettist and composer worked in the making of "The Mikado" from the first fling of the opening chorus at everything rocco-Japanese to the deft bit of forensics whereby, at 10:55, Koko calls attention to the fact that it is time to end the tale.

Thursday night's performance was no more in a degree not discernible earlier in the week in "The Sorcerer."

For one thing Thursday night's audience belonged just where it was—sitting in contemplation of "The Mikado." It displayed its complete affinity with the proceedings of the evening by applauding the overture so heartily that there was a question for a moment on the part of the conductor, Clarence West, if it would not be well to repeat the final movement.

It was an audience that knew every note of the dazzling score—a perfect example of true musical humor when it is not sheer loveliness, as in "The Moon and the Sixpence" or "Hearts Do Not Break"—and displayed its knowledge in anticipatory applause as soon as the band broke into the prelude of each song. And this is as good a place as any to record the fact that not in many years has another orchestra so good as this done service heretofore in light opera.

Mr. Hopper's Koko had adequate description, mainly in terms of praise, in this journal when it was first revealed here, in 1912, and again a year ago. What was printed then stands as a tribute to its rich intelligent fun. He Koko would his exuberance in the countless encores of "The Powers That Bloom in the Spring," but his clowning here is the sole flaw. He was in excellent voice, and sang "Till Willow" with inimitable comic feeling and gusto.

Miss Kate Condon, rejoining the company after two years, was again the Katisha. She did not swing into the spirit of the vengeful beldame until Act II, but was quite fit by the time the long scene with Koko was reached, and here proved an excellent foil for the star.

Arthur Aldridge as Nanki-Poo, Herbert Watrous as Pooh-Bah, and Arthur Cunningham as the Yum-Yum last evening; and her place in the soubrette part was taken by another pretty girl, Miss Anabel Jourdan. All in all, a capital performance of a well high perfect work, prettily placed on the stage, and, of itself, the most adequate of reasons for visiting the Auditorium in the Hopper engagement.

"The Mikado" remains the bill through Sunday and Monday evening, when "H. M. S. Pinafore" will be revived, with "Trial by Jury" as good measure.—Chicago Tribune.

Hopper in Opera
at the Auditorium

BY RONALD WEBSTER
Those who sit through "Lancashire Humors" during the opera season unconsciously conscious of the superlative idiosyncrasy of the libretto, but prevented from healthily laughing it off because of the word grand which somehow implies an art without a smile, might find infinite solace in the production of "The Sorcerer."

Apparently Gilbert's satire had not been localized in "The Sorcerer," he was hitting out in all directions, but somehow, chiefly through Sullivan's music one suspects, the Donizetti school of opera is the hardest hit. There is in the first scene a kind of imitation of the mad scene, flute answering voice; there are the excited "asides" in which the singers proclaim their passion to the audience in ringing tones only to end as ignorant of the other's feelings as they began.

"I prefer my grand opera thus," said one man at the conclusion. "The Sorcerer" is nevertheless not to be recommended to those who have tried to make opera conform to the standard of absolute music.

De Wolf Hopper's company did not miss many of the opportunities given them by Sullivan. Mr. Hopper himself did not miss any of the opportunities given to him by Gilbert, the librettist.

"The Sorcerer" has not been performed in Chicago for many years, and it is not generally familiar. Gilbert went to the old device of the love philter for his plot. He does so many things to it, however, that it would not have been recognized in the family of romantic love philter stories.

Alexis Pointdextre, son of a baronet, anticipated George Bernard Shaw in his advocacy of unequal marriages as a panacea for social ills. The only difference is that Shaw says that if incomes are equal dukes would marry charwomen all incomes would be equal and happiness would reign. Being engaged himself, he cannot honorably practice what he preaches. So he employs John Wellington Wells (Mr. Hopper) of J. W. Wells & Co., family sorcerers, to apply the love potion.

Naturally the villagers all choose wrong, and Alexis' own fiancée falls in love with the amiable vicar. In order to dissolve the charm poor Mr. Hopper yields the stage, to sink down through a trap into a funny hell.

The production proves Mr. Hopper's astuteness in things theatrical and musical. He assigns another reason for his revival of this and others of Gilbert and Sullivan's repertory. "I am getting to the age where I want to indulge myself," he declares. "With all the alimony I have to pay I would rather make a thousand dollars a week less in Gilbert and Sullivan than a thousand more in vaudeville."

His company is of necessity good. It could not have done the difficult music unless it had been. The Sorcerer was sufficiently good to please the members of the Chicago Bar association, who filled most of the seats of the entirely sold out main floor of the house.

Mr. Watrous used to be with the Metropolitan, I am told. He was not invariably on the key last night.

Arthur Aldridge, the municipal beauty, which occasionally sounds uncomfortable in the upper register. Apparently it has not been thoroughly trained. He did both his parts, Alexis and the defendant in the "Trial by Jury" with an understanding which might have cured Gilbert of his distrust of tenors in general.

The two principal women, Miss Caldwell and Miss Patterson, are not great singers, but they have considerable acting ability, they know how to sing, and their voices are pleasing.

Mr. Hopper, of course, was the important person of the evening as the judge and as the sorcerer—as important at any rate as Gilbert and Sullivan ever permitted one character to be. His methods of making laughter are as familiar as of old and just as potent.

"Trial by Jury," a "curtain raiser," is a satire on the futility of attempting to fight a woman in the courts. I don't imagine the august members of the bar in the audience were deeply hurt by it.—Chicago Tribune.

De Wolf Hopper Pleases

Gilbert and Sullivan comic opera, with De Wolf Hopper as the star of the merry and melodious proceedings, goes to-morrow evening into its second week at the Auditorium Theatre. The star and his company of seventy-six have made good. The theatre already has held at least three of the biggest theater parties ever organized in the City of Chicago. Mr. Hopper's activities for the new week will show him as Koko in "The Mikado," as Dick Deadeye in "H. M. S. Pinafore," as the Judge in "Trial by Jury," as the Lord Chancellor in "Iolanthe," and as the Sergeant of Police in "The Pirates of Penzance." Following is the arrangement of the comic operas for the week starting to-morrow:

Sunday evening, "The Mikado"; or, "The Town of Titipu." Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday evenings, Wednesday afternoon, "H. M. S. Pinafore"; or, "The Lass That Loved a Sailor," followed by "Trial by Jury." Thursday and Friday evenings, "Iolanthe"; or, "The Peer and the Pert." Saturday afternoon and evening, "The Pirates of Penzance"; or, "The Slave of Duty."

Miss Kate Condon, who joined the company last Thursday for "The Mikado," remains a member and will sing in all the operas except "Trial by Jury." Miss Gladys Caldwell, Miss Idelle Patterson, Miss Anabel Jourdan, Arthur Aldridge, Arthur Cunningham, Herbert Watrous, John Willard, Herbert Cripps and Edward Temple are other notable principals.—Chicago American.
